REQUEST:
The City Council is requesting amendments to the zoning ordinance regulations regarding appeals of administrative decisions. Administrative decisions are those made by the Planning Commission, Historic Landmark Commission, or the Zoning Administrator in the administration of the zoning ordinance. The proposed amendments would modify City Code to align with State law, related case law, and make other clarifications to that code section. The amendments primarily clarify what matters can be decided by the City's Appeals Hearing Officer, who can appeal decisions, and when an appeal can stay a decision. The proposed amendments affect Chapter 21A.16 of the zoning ordinance. Related provisions of Title 21A-Zoning may be amended as part of this petition. The changes would apply Citywide.

RECOMMENDATION:
Based on the findings listed in the staff report, Planning Staff recommends that the Planning Commission forward a favorable recommendation for the text amendment request to the City Council.

Petition Description
The City Council initiated a petition to amend the Appeals chapter of the zoning ordinance in May of this year. The changes were initiated due to issues with the code being identified by the Attorney’s Office in responding to and processing recent “Administrative Decision” appeals.
Administrative decisions are those made by the Planning Commission, Historic Landmark Commission, or the Zoning Administrator in the administration of the zoning ordinance. Administrative decisions include such items as Planned Developments, Design Reviews, Subdivisions, Special Exceptions, and Major/Minor Alterations. These include when City staff is administering the ordinance by issuing decisions for these items directly or when the Planning Commission or Historic Landmarks Commission are the decision makers.

The proposed amendments would modify City Code to align with State law, related case law, and make other clarifications to that code section. The amendments primarily do the following:

- Clarify what matters can be decided by the City’s Appeals Hearing Officer,
- Modify who can appeal decisions to comply with State Code, and
- Modify when an appeal can stay a decision to comply with State Code and case law.

Other minor miscellaneous clarifications are included in the code changes for consistency and enforceability. The changes are discussed in more detail in the Key Code Changes section below.

Applicable Review Processes and Standards

Review Processes: Zoning Text Amendment

Zoning text amendments are reviewed against four considerations, pertaining to whether proposed code is consistent with adopted City planning documents, furthers the purposes of the zoning ordinance, are consistent with other overlay zoning codes, and the extent they implement best professional practices. Those considerations are addressed in Attachment C.

City Code amendments are ultimately up to the discretion of the City Council and are not controlled by any one standard.

Community Input

Notification of this proposal was sent out in June to all registered community councils to get community input and an online open house website was posted with the proposed draft and an overview of the proposal to get wider input. One community council (Sugar House) responded with a request to attend their Land Use and Zoning Committee meeting to go over the changes and staff attended that meeting. No other input has been received from community councils on the proposal.

KEY CODE CHANGES:

The below sections go over the primary code changes proposed with this amendment.

1. Appeals Hearing Officer Authority Over City and State Code Appeals
2. State Code Updates Narrowing Appellants
3. Stays of Decisions for Appeals
4. Miscellaneous Changes

1. Appeals Hearing Officer Authority Over City and State Code Appeals

Proposed Change:

- Clarify that the City Appeals Hearing Officer can only make decisions regarding the interpretation and application of provisions of Salt Lake City Code, not provisions regarding the interpretation and application of provisions of the Utah State Code, the Utah Constitution, Utah common law or federal law.
Utah State Code requires that a municipality that adopts a land use ordinance, shall also establish one or more appeal authorities to hear and decide the following: (1) requests for variances under the City’s land use ordinance; (2) appeals from decisions applying the land use ordinance, and (3) appeals from certain fees imposed by the City, e.g., review of building plans and hook-up fees. Utah Code § 10-9a-701(1)

Most applications the City receives, and most interpretations it must make on a day-to-day basis, concern interpretation and application of provisions of the City’s local land use ordinance (City Code). If an affected person disagrees with the City’s interpretation of a provision of the City’s local land use ordinance, such as a zoning setback requirement, they can appeal it to the City’s Appeals Hearing Officer (the local land use appeal authority.)

On occasion, the City will receive an application that requests a land use that is provided for in Utah Code, not City ordinance. For example, Utah Code provides for relocation of billboards, where specifically prohibited by the City’s local land use ordinance. These applications require the City to review the application and determine if the applicant meets the requirements of a provision of state law, not City Code. In circumstances where the City has found the applicant does not meet the requirements of the provision, applicants have sought to appeal these decisions to the City’s Appeals Hearing Officer. On occasion, the City’s hearing officers, over the objection of the City, have heard and issued decisions on these appeals.

Neither Salt Lake City Code, nor Utah State Code, permit a City Hearing Officer to make these decisions. See Utah State Code § 10-9a-701(1) (requiring an appeal authority to hear appeals from a city’s land use ordinance); Salt Lake City Code 21A.16.010 & 020 (stating hearing officer’s authority is to hear appeals alleging an error in interpretation, administration or enforcement of Title 21A of the Salt Lake City Code). These appeals should be made directly to the State’s district courts.

Thus, to remove any confusion, the amendments to the ordinance make clear the authority of the City’s hearing officers is limited to reviewing the City’s interpretation and application of provisions of the Salt Lake City Code, not provisions of State or Federal law.

This clarification of the authority of the City’s Appeals Hearing Officers is specifically provided for and permitted by the provision of State Code requiring the City to establish a land use appeal authority. See Utah Code § 10-9a-701(4)(e) (stating a municipality may by ordinance “provide that specified types of land use decisions may be appealed directly to the district court.”)

The changes are shown starting on line 39 of the redline draft in Attachment A.

2. State Code Updates Narrowing Appellants

Proposed Change:

• Modify the list of allowed appellants to the land use applicant, City board or officer, or “an adversely affected party” to comply with new State Code.

This year the State Legislature with House Bill 388 adopted changes to Utah State Code section 10-9a-7 “Appeal Authority and Variances.” That code section authorizes cities to establish land use appeal processes. That code section includes provisions that also limit land use appellants to three entities. The code changes narrowed the list of the entities that can appeal land use decisions by making the following change to that list of possible appellants (strikethroughs show deleted text and underlines show new text):
The (1) land use applicant, (2) a board or officer of the municipality, or (3) [any person adversely affected by the land use authority’s decision administering or interpreting a land use ordinance] an adversely affected party may...

The entity defined as “any person adversely affected by the land use authority’s decision” was revised to the term “adversely affected party.” State Code then defines that term as:

(2) "Adversely affected party" means a person other than a land use applicant who:

(a) owns real property adjoining the property that is the subject of a land use application or land use decision; or
(b) will suffer a damage different in kind than, or an injury distinct from, that of the general community as a result of the land use decision.

While still using the term “adversely affected” it narrowly defines it to the two specific circumstances above in (a) and (b).

The proposed changes to the City’s appeals chapter would revise the list of allowed appellants to comply with the current State Code allowance. The changes are shown starting on line 80 of the redline draft in Attachment A.

3. Stays of Decisions for Appeals

Proposed Change:

- Eliminate automatic stays of decisions. An appellant would have to specifically request and justify a stay.

Currently City Code specifies that a land use decision is automatically stayed upon submission of an appeal. A “stay” means that the decision is put on hold and no further proceedings can occur on the matter, pending a decision by the appeal authority on the appeal. For example, if the Planning Commission approved a development, but it was appealed and a stay was imposed, the developer couldn’t pull permits or start construction on their proposal. The current City Code also provides that an automatic stay can be released if the City’s Zoning Administrator (a member of City Planning staff) certifies in writing to the Appeals Hearing Officer that the stay would be against the best interest of the City.

The proposal would change the code section to no longer automatically stay a decision and instead require that an appellant formally request a stay. The appellant would also need to justify the stay by showing how it would be necessary “to prevent substantial harm” to the appellant. The Appeals Hearing Officer would then decide on whether to impose a stay. This change is intended to reflect State Code (10-9a-801(3)(b)) and case law wherein the decision of the Planning Commission or Historical Landmark Commission (“land use authority”) is to be initially presumed to be valid by a court or appeal authority in reviewing an appeal. An automatic stay is contrary to that presumption and so the proposal would eliminate that automatic stay. Additionally, automatic stays incentivize appeals that have no merit and put applicants in a difficult position whereby City approvals may be put on hold for up to six months when there may be no justification for such a stay.

The related changes are shown starting on line 129 of the redline draft in Attachment A. Other changes are included to other related sections of the code, such as the Planning Commission and Historic Landmarks Commission sections, to reflect and reference that change starting on line 231 and continuing to 292 of the redline draft in Attachment A.
4. Miscellaneous Changes

Proposed Changes:

- Clarifications to code references and removal of potentially conflicting language

The code includes other minor changes and clarifications to the appeals chapter. These include removal of potentially conflicting code regarding record keeping. City record keeping timeframes are imposed by other City Code and State law and the code change reduces the language to simply refer to those in order to avoid conflicts. These changes begin on line 208 of the draft code in Attachment A. They also include changes to reflect and reference the current types of city applications and processes the Appeals Hearing Officer has authority over. Those changes are in the Authority section, starting on line 16 in Attachment A. Changes clarifying that there is an application and fee for appeals is included in the “Procedure” section, starting on line 96 in Attachment A. There are also deletions of the reference to the “Historic Preservation Appeal Authority” shown in the draft. Those are intended to reflect a recently adopted ordinance that deleted that entity, which has just not yet been incorporated or “codified” into the official city zoning text.

DISCUSSION:

The proposed code updates have been reviewed against the Zoning Amendment consideration criteria in Attachment C. The proposed code changes implement best practices by ensuring the code is up to date, does not conflict with other applicable State or City Code, and complies with the City’s zoning purposes by ensuring that City ordinances can be legally administered and enforced.

Due to these considerations, staff is recommending that the Commission forward a favorable recommendation on this request to the City Council.

NEXT STEPS:

The Planning Commission can provide a positive or negative recommendation for the proposed text amendments. The recommendation will be sent to the City Council, who will hold a briefing and additional public hearing on the proposed text amendments amendment. The City Council may make modifications to the proposal and approve or decline to approve the proposed zoning text amendments.

If the text amendments are approved by the City Council, appeals would be subject to the new City ordinance standards.
This attachment includes a “clean” version of the code without strikethroughs and underlines that show deleted and new text, and a “draft” version that identifies such deletions and new text with strikethroughs and underlines, respectively.
