Subject: RE: Home Occupation Item - Conflict of Interest Question

Because the City has currently outstanding roughly 2500 home occupation licenses, we believe that that number is sufficiently large to take this situation out of the "individualized effect...distinguishable from its effect on the public generally" provision in SLCC Section 2.44.030A. Therefore neither recusal nor disclosure is necessary.

Thanks

Ed

Subject: Home Occupation Item - Conflict of Interest Question
Importance: High

Hi Ed-

We had a question come up about the Home Occupation item the Council will discuss in today's work session. The public hearing is set for next Tuesday, December 11th.

Some of the Council Members have a home occupation license (or have had or will have). Would this be considered a conflict of interest? Should they recue themselves from the discussion?
