PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Title 1 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 established the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. The CDBG program provides a comprehensive and flexible source of federal funds to communities nationwide. The program's primary objective is to promote the development of viable urban communities by providing the following, principally to persons of low and moderate income:

- Decent housing
- A suitable living environment
- Expanded economic activities

Since 1975, Salt Lake City has received CDBG funding as a designated U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) entitlement community. The amount of funding the City receives each year is determined by a HUD formula that considers population lag, pre-1940 housing, and poverty rates.

Salt Lake City's CDBG funds are administered and monitored through the City's Housing and Neighborhood Development Division. The CDBG program advances through an annual process that begins in July with solicitation of applications. The process includes application review by City Staff, the Community Development and Capital Improvement Programs (CDCIP) Advisory Board, and the Mayor. The CDCIP Advisory Board and Mayor make funding recommendations to the City Council. The City Council has the final funding approval authority. Successful applicants receive their funding in July of the year following application submission. Funding decisions by the City Council are subject to approval by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

EVALUATION PROCESS

All applications are reviewed by City Staff to ensure that funding requests meet the required criteria. Adequate information needs to be provided on the following:

- National Objective Requirements
- Eligible Activity Requirements
- Background/Mission of Applicant Organization
- Organization’s Ability to Carry out Proposed Project/Program
- Adequate Program/Project Description
- Project/Program Location

Funding Recommendations

As Figure 1 demonstrates, the funding award process will begin in September with staff review of applications. After applications are approved by City Staff for eligibility, they are reviewed by members of the Community Development and Capital Improvement Program (CDCIP) advisory board, a citizen volunteer board comprised of local residents representing each of the City Council districts. The CDCIP advisory board meets every two weeks over the course of three months to review applications and make funding recommendations to the Mayor and City Council.

Applications and CDCIP advisory board recommendations are provided to the Mayor for review. After careful evaluation, the Mayor makes funding recommendations that are provided, along with the CDCIP Board recommendations, to the City Council for their consideration.

Funding Decisions

The City Council holds a public hearing in order to provide an additional opportunity for public input on the projects proposed for funding. Applications recommended for funding by the CDCIP Board and Mayor will not necessarily receive an award, as the availability of funding is limited.

Following the public hearing and several briefings on the applications, the City Council adopts their funding recommendations and formally approves the projects/programs that will receive funding. Funds awarded can be for the full or partial amount requested. Funding decisions by the City Council are subject to approval by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Grant Agreements

Applicants selected for funding will be invited to enter into a contract with the City. Contract negotiations might require additional requirements, such as the refinement of the final scope of services. Salt Lake City's Housing and Neighborhood Development Division will contract with the selected applicants once negotiations are complete.
