SLC Media Updates

Press Conference - Salt Lake City Voters Support Parks, Trails & Open Space Bond

With the 2022 election results, Salt Lake City voters clearly communicated their support for new and improved parks, trails, and open spaces with 71 percent of voters casting a ballot in favor of the $85 million Parks, Trails & Open Space general obligation bond.

Salt Lake City Mayor Erin Mendenhall hosted a press conference discussing the vote and what comes next, saying that “Salt Lakers love the outdoors, they love their community green spaces, and I’m thrilled to see such broad support for new parks, trails and open spaces in every corner of our capital city. This bond will bring about generational change for our neighborhoods, and I can’t wait to see it take shape.”
